25/02/2014 - School construction and safety of the territory. Some of the hot points on which the new Government Renzi intends to launch its reform program.

As announced yesterday in his speech to the Senate, the President of the Council has emphasized that, in addition to the interventions of restructuring, the relaunch of the economy passes through the unlocking of payments to companies and access to credit for small and medium-sized companies.

School construction

Second to what affirmed by Matteo Renzi, the country must restart from schools. For this reason it is not more admissible that investments in school construction are blocked by the stability pact.

As stated by Renzi, Municipalities and Provinces have the competence in school construction, but at the same time they cannot spend the necessary funds, because they are blocked by norms "that worry about bureaucratic stability but do not take into account the stability of the classrooms where our children study".

Renzi has therefore announced the sending of a letter to the over 8,000 mayors and the Presidents of the Provinces to ask them to report on the situation of school construction. In line with the needs identified, a special plan will be launched for their safety.

Renewables and hydrogeological disrepair

Matteo Renzi has announced that by March a plan will be launched for work in the field of which there will be a kind of industrial plan articulated in individual sectors. It will start from alternative energies, intended not simply as a subsidy or intervention in a single sector, but as the need to create new jobs, to reach green chemistry, technological innovation applied to research and investments against hydrogeological disrepair in order to overcome the logic of emergency.

Payments and credit to companies

The new premier has committed himself in front of the Senate to the total and not partial unlocking of resources necessary for the payment of debts that the Public Administration has towards companies through a different use of the Cassa di Risparmio e Prestiti.

In the same way, thanks to a renewed use of the Cassa di Risparmio e Prestiti, Renzi has affirmed that it will be possible to constitute funds of guarantee to support small and medium-sized companies that cannot access credit.
